

The evening was soft and warm, and little Sonny the quokka padded out

It tickled the tips of the tall grass, making them nod and sway. Sunny

The leaves shivered and shimmered in the moonlight, silver and

She breathed it in slowly. In. And out. The breeze curled around her

It ruffled the fur on her tummy. It swayed the tall reeds by the creek with a Softer. It lay down in the grass beside Sunny, and Sunny lay down too.

Sweet dreams!

See you next time, little one ☐

Sonny's Cozy Quokka Bedtime Tales

By Jamie Wigg