

Sunny had never seen the sky quite like this before. She had found a

A whole band of light stretching from one end of the world to the

She lay down in the middle of the clearing and put her paws behind

She tried to look at one part of it and found she could not — it was too

All those stars. All that light. All of it so far away, and yet the light

And Sunny, small and warm and perfectly held.
Goodnight, Sunny.

Sweet dreams!

See you next time, little one ☐
