

Sunny and the Morning Mist | Bedtime Story

Sonny's Cozy Quokka Bedtime Tales
By Jamie Wigg

When the sun slips away, the valley begins to fill with mist. Sunny the little quokka stepped

The mist came slowly. So slowly. It crept along the ground like a sleepy river. It curled around Sunny watched it come. She did not move. She just stood very quietly and breathed it in. The air

The mist rose a little higher. It touched the tips of the grasses. It drifted past the round

Sunny took one small step forward. The mist wrapped gently around her paws.
She smiled her big warm

Sunny's eyes grew heavy.
She rested her cheek on her paws. The valley was so still. The mist was so

Sweet dreams!

See you next time, little one ☑
