

The 30-Day Evening Launch Plan

A day-by-day playbook to launch a profitable side hustle in 30 evenings, while keeping your full-time job.

Price: $27

Sales blurb (use on Gumroad page):

Most "start a side hustle" advice assumes you have weekends and energy. You don't. This plan gives you 60–90 minutes per evening for 30 days — total of ~40 hours — and ends with you having a live offer, your first 5 paying customers, and a system that doesn't break when work gets busy. No fluff. No "just believe in yourself." Just what to do tonight.

3-bullet description: - 30 evenings, 60–90 min each — designed around a 9-to-5 - Niche selection → offer → first paying customer, in order - Includes prompt scripts for AI to do the slow parts for you

Week 1 — Pick a niche and an offer

Day 1 (Monday): Inventory your unfair advantages

- Spend 60 min listing: skills you've been paid for, problems coworkers ask you to solve, software you know unusually well, communities you're already in.
- Output: a list of 10+ items.

Day 2: Map skills → buyer pain

- For each item from Day 1, write one sentence: "Who would pay me to ____ for them?"
- Cross out anything where the answer is vague.

Day 3: Pick three candidate niches

- Choose three from Day 2 with the clearest buyer.
- For each, search Reddit/X for "I need help with ____" — note real complaints, screenshot them.

Day 4: Validate buyer power

- Search "[niche] freelancer rates" and "[niche] tools they pay for."
- Cut any niche where buyers are broke (students, hobbyists with no income).

- Pick the winner.

Day 5: Define your one offer

- Write: "I help [specific buyer] [achieve specific outcome] in [timeframe] for [price]."
- Make it concrete enough that a stranger could repeat it.

Day 6 (weekend): Buy the domain. Set up a one-page site.

- Use the One-Page Launch Site Template (Product 5). 90 minutes max.

Day 7 (weekend): Rest. Don't skip.

Week 2 — Build the minimum viable offering

Day 8: Write your offer page

- Use the AI Prompt Pack prompts: "landing page hero," "objection handler," "social proof scaffold."
- Goal: 4 sections — headline, what you do, how it works, CTA.

Day 9: Define what "delivery" looks like

- One Notion/Google Doc template that captures every deliverable for one customer. (Use Product 3.)

Day 10: Price it

- Look at 5 competitors. Price 20% under the highest, 30% above the lowest. Don't undercut on price 1.

Day 11: Set up payment

- Stripe Payment Link, or Gumroad if it's a digital product. 30 minutes.

Day 12: Write your "FAQ"

- 10 questions a skeptical buyer would ask. Answer them.

Day 13: Build a 5-email follow-up sequence

- Use the Email Pack (Product 4) Templates 1–5.

Day 14 (weekend): Soft launch to 10 friends/colleagues

- Goal isn't sales — it's feedback on confusion points.

Week 3 — Get your first 5 customers

Day 15: Pick one channel and commit

- Cold DMs on X/LinkedIn, Reddit answers, TikTok content, or in-person network. Pick one.

Day 16: Write 30 cold outreach messages

- Personalized, ~3 sentences. Use Email Pack Template 1.

Day 17: Send all 30. Track in a sheet.

- Expected reply rate: 5–15%.

Day 18: Reply to every response within 4 hours.

- Don't pitch in the first reply. Get on a 15-minute call instead.

Day 19: Run discovery calls.

- Listen 70%, talk 30%. Confirm the offer matches their pain.

Day 20: Send proposals/payment links.

- Same day as the call. Speed kills hesitation.

Day 21 (weekend): Send next 30 outreach messages.

Week 4 — Systematize and scale to repeatable

Day 22: Onboard your first 1–2 customers

- Use a single onboarding form (5 questions max).

Day 23: Deliver the first piece of work

- Set a deadline 25% sooner than they expect.

Day 24: Ask for testimonial mid-project

- "Anything I should keep doing?" — turn the answer into copy.

Day 25: Build a referral ask into delivery

- "If you know anyone else with [problem], introducing me means $X off your next [thing]."

Day 26: Write a public case study post

- Post on the channel from Day 15.

Day 27: Raise your price 20% for the next customer

- Don't tell anyone. Just charge it.

Day 28: Decide what you're killing

- Look at 4 weeks of data. Cut the activities that didn't produce a customer or a lead.

Day 29: Plan the next 30 days

- One growth lever, one delivery improvement, one product expansion.

Day 30: Take the night off.

Failure modes to watch for

- You spent week 1 picking a niche and never started week 2. Niche perfection is procrastination. Pick the okay one and ship.

- You wrote 30 outreach messages and sent 0. Send before they're polished. Reply rate compensates for messy.
- You took on a customer who's a bad fit "just to start." They will eat your evenings. Refund and move on.
- You undercharged the first sale. Acceptable — but raise prices by customer 3.

What to do if you fall behind

Skip ahead, never sideways. Missing day 14 is fine. Going back to redo day 4 on day 15 isn't. You're building momentum, not perfection.
